

Hylan Attacks Rockefeller Aid For Education

Compares It With System Used for Enlightenment of Chinese Coolies; Also Denounces Gary School Plan

"Interests" Chief Target

Laughter Greets Statement That His Limousine Is Used to Speed Business

Mayor John F. Hylan, speaking at the dedication last night of Public School No. 10, 10th Street, the Bronx, attacked the Rockefeller Foundation, charging that the former wanted children of the common people to be educated only for the factory and mill while the latter sought to improve a system of education similar to that applied to the enlightenment of Chinese coolies and to the most backward native castes of India.

After he had talked for more than an hour to a large audience inside the building Mayor Hylan addressed a gathering outside, devoting himself largely to the instance to the five-cent fare, which he declared he was determined to maintain despite all efforts of taxation and other interests to the contrary. Those who favored an increased fare, the Mayor said, were persons who rode in limousines and did not care about streetcar fares.

Questioned About His Car

"What about your own limousine?" yelled a man in the crowd.

"My good friend," responded Mayor Hylan, "the car I ride in is not my car. It is furnished for my use by the City of New York to facilitate official business."

Charges Statements Misleading

Mayor Hylan reiterated his oft-made statement that so long as he sat in the Mayor's chair neither the traction interests, the gas, electric or any other interests would run the City of New York. Also, he informed his hearers that the "gambling interests," which were trying to run the Police Department, would not be allowed to do so.

The Mayor reiterated accusations made in previous speeches that misleading statements had been made with regard to schools in paid newspaper advertisements. He had a plan for the lack of schools on past administrations. Twelve new schools had been opened in the last four weeks, Mayor Hylan said, and ten more would be opened before the first of January. That would take care of 50,000 children, removing them from the part-time roll.

Be Careful and You May Be a Mayor, Says Hylan

Gold, silver and bronze medals were presented yesterday by Mayor Hylan on the steps of the City Hall to 202 public and parochial school children for having written the best essays on "Fire Prevention." The medals are the gift of the new Board of Fire Underwriters and are awarded annually as a part of the fire prevention week exercises to estimate among children of the city a higher sense of responsibility in the campaign against fire. The essays were written last June as a part of the closing exercises of the term.

Ten gold medals were awarded to the high school and intermediate school pupils; silver medals to the pupils in 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 grades, and bronze medals to the pupils in the 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 grades.

The gold medal winners were Sadie Leifer, 8, 8, 124, Brooklyn; Mary Jacobson, 9, 9, 12, Manhattan; Martin Spackman, 10, 10, 12, Stuyvesant High School; Florence Madachian, 11, 11, 12, Stuyvesant High School; H. Gorin, Manual Training High School, Brooklyn; Abel Balten, 12, 12, 12, Stuyvesant High School; Joseph Kalmach, Morris High School, Bronx; and John Kane, Stuyvesant High School.

Mayor Hylan, in addressing the pupils, told them that fire prevention was the greatest service that could be performed for the good of the city.

"Carry your campaign of precaution into your homes and schools," he said. "We are building more schools where you to better advantage secure the fundamental education, which is the basis for higher studies. Who knows but some day, because of your careful conduct and honesty, you may aspire to the high honor of being Mayor of this city. Even the girls, when they are willing to admit they are twenty-one years old, will be eligible for that or any other office in the gift of the people."

Ruin Threatens Wedding As Thieves Get Clothes

The visit paid by burglars to Barnard Michaelson's full-dress hiring establishment at 77 Forsyth Street, Thursday night made a wreck out of the store and will have just about the same effect on a coming lower East Side wedding unless Michaelson is able to recover some of the loot.

The police have most of it, recovering a number of gowns, veils and dresses after the robbery had been reported. Michaelson appeared yesterday in Essex Market Court and begged Magistrate Simms to release the gowns, veils and dresses, saying that a refusal would ruin the biggest East Side wedding of the year and his reputation and that of his shop as well.

"If the folks don't get the wedding stuff in time, your honor," said Michaelson, "the wedding will be a failure and I will be lynched. Even the stuff the bride and groom were going to wear was in the lot taken by the thieves."

Michaelson was told to go to the District Attorney's office downtown. Two men arrested in connection with the burglary were Joseph De Falco, of 17 Hester Street, and Salvatore Capobianco, of 1425 New Utrecht Avenue, Brooklyn. They were held in $5,000 bail for examination next Monday.

Burglar Breaks Open School Cornerstone to Get $10 Coins

Puts Fresh Cement on Broken Surface After Long and Laborious Job and Carefully Clears Debris Away

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Some utilitarian burglar, quite devoid of sentiment, broke into the cornerstone of the high school here, it was learned to-day, and stole $5 or $10 worth of coins and two copies of the local newspaper, which had been sealed up there when the stone was laid five years ago.

Records giving the names of the members of the Board of Education, other village officials, the architect and others connected with the erection of the building the burglar tore up. George E. Brewer, president of the Board of Education, called a special meeting to-day, at which it was voted to offer a reward of $25 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the industrious burglar.

A mason, who is to have charge of the job of repairing the cornerstone, said that the most skillful artisan would have required two hours to cut his way through the cement and roll the stone to the cavity in the cornerstone. Moreover, he said, he would have made a tremendous racket doing it and debris on the basement floor which would take about another hour to clear up.

Hand Woner, janitor of the school, who discovered the burglary last Friday when he was sweeping the basement, found that the coins had been torn up, and put in an ash can. A few crumbs of cement only had been overlooked, and it was these which nerstone, which is near the ceiling of the basement.

A dark smear of fresh cement covered the inside face of the stone. It was still soft, and Woner scraped it away, disclosing the rifted copper box which had contained the coins, records and newspapers. For some reason the as kept secret until to-day, when the reward was offered.

Nobody knows how much money was in the copper box. When the stone was laid members of the Board of Education pupils of the school surrounded the copper box and threw out as much as they could. Most of the children were throwing pennies, though, and it is not believed that members of the board threw away any great amount of money.

To-day is the last day of registration. The polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 10:30 p. m.

Are You Sure You Give Your Motor Fair Treatment?

To afford perfect lubrication in different types and conditions of motors, Socony Polarine Oils are made in three uniform grades

Automotive engineers estimate that at least 85% of all motor troubles are preventable by a careful study of the lubricating requirements of each individual motor—its condition as well as its design should be taken into consideration. The serviceability of many parts of the motor can be materially lengthened by using the proper grade of oil and shortened by a wrong grade.

The manufacturers of Socony Polarine Products began making automobile lubricants when the automobile was still in its infancy. The apparatus and methods employed today represent a long, unsurpassed experience in this branch of petroleum refining and manufacture.

You Can Rely Upon Every Socony Polarine Product

Socony Polarine Regular is an oil of medium body for use in cars where piston rings and working parts are properly fitted and in good condition, and for use during the winter months where an oil with a low cold test is desired.

Socony Polarine Heavy is an oil of heavy body and exceptional lubricating qualities. For use where loose-fitting parts require a heavier grade than the Regular, and during the summer months.

Socony Polarine Extra Heavy is a special grade manufactured for use in motorcycles, air-cooled motors, slide sleeve motors, slow speed motors, motors with large bore, and those excessively worn by long service.

Socony Polarine Lubricants and Greases

The following additional products are included in the complete line of Socony Polarine Lubricants: Socony Polarine Gear Oil for transmissions and differentials whose construction permits the use of oil; Socony Polarine Gear Compound, a semi-solid differential and transmission lubricant; Socony Polarine "BB" Transmission Lubricant, an ideal, semi-solid gear lubricant used where the construction does not allow the use of a heavy oil; Socony Polarine Cup Grease; Socony Polarine Fibre Grease; Socony Polarine Graphite Grease.

Standardize on Socony Polarine Oils and Lubricants. Your dealer will be glad to advise you on your particular needs.
